a very good idea. i will sign up for this. it can be a means of controling what enters the home. a control on violence and sexually explicit material. i recognise that there may be additional costs and a time lag to implement. some originators of programming will not like this but life can be tough. the advertisers should like this. a self selected audience willing to receive their ads.